» Pizzeria Mozza

Superlatives crowd this vibrant, high-ceilinged room painted in planes of brick, ocher, and graphite. Nancy Silverton's pizza is—no contest—the best in L.A., its crust chewy, airy, and touched with char. One version, oozing with bagna cauda, is strewn with guanciale and radicchio and centered with a fried egg. Another is dotted with squash blossoms and gloriously fresh burrata; another has fennel sausage, panna, and red onion. There are a handful of antipasti, salads, panini, and bruschetta, and a daily special. David Rosoff's wine list, all Italian, has everyone ordering carafes at lunch in what is the most convivial restaurant L.A. has seen in some time. Reservations are advised. • 641 N. Highland Ave., Hollywood (323-297-0101 or mozza-la.com). L-D daily. Beer and wine. Pizzeria SS
